ST. LOUIS, THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 13, 1888.-TEN PAGES.

CRAWFORD'S.

The argument's all below.

Trimming velvet out from a dollar to 35 cents. Silk plush cut to 55c. 18-inch Satins for dressing dolls and fancy work, 35 cents. Embroidered velvet slippers, worth a dollar, for 75 cents. Silk handkerchiefs, 35 cents.

A striped Newmarket, with bell sleeves, full puffed back, handsome silk ornament, $2.75.

Crawford's just about giving away Christmas tree trimmings. A grand selection of everything pretty for trees.

Dolls, fancy clowns that wink their eyes, poke out a long, red tongue, clap their hands and set you a roaring with laughter; sleds, big and little, with seats and without, for that big snow storm that's coming the last of the month (they're awful cheap, too); tool chests, steam engines, horses, and all sorts of animals on wheels. And everything in the shape of a toy that was ever made. And all very, very cheap!

HOW TO SOLVE THIS

SEE THE ONLY M'NICHOL.

"Is marriage a failure?" the question-day asked over the land and the sea. "The wedding, the bond and the free. The man who marries to you this better. Save the nuptial side of this right. And he says, 'If I had not seen one another You would say wedded bliss is all right.'"

"Is marriage a failure?" asked Daniel of Mary— "You've heard of before. And love's a little bit of the door. The man don't exist who is better alone, Nor the woman who lives by herself. Yet getting the wrong one makes sorrowful moan, And duty is laid on the shawl."

"Now Daniel, if you and I had not agreed To live in luxurious style, We long since had come to the latter end, Though the looking of plain common sense. And you and I, my dear, are never the same as the other side. Are you the one to go to Michael Or to try the installment plan. While we while away the time at the chance To live in luxurious style. By paying each week not a whit in advance Of those who put down the whole pie. No, mine is marriage to you, for I seek The right way to capture expense. Make a life-time home and pay by the week And draw on your hard common sense. In plain words furnish your home on the installment plan, putting in objects of beauty as well as utility, surrounded with comfort, and he will not say of you or of me, if it costs him. By hand we are happy you will be, all for a bachelorette. (T. O. N. M'NICHOL, 1025, 1026, 1027, 1028, Market St., St. Louis.)

THE SECESSION OF UNIONISTS FROM THE NATIONAL CLUB.

Churchill and the Sackville Incident—Germany Irritated by Russian Press Comments—The Shah of Persia Weakens—Withdrawal of Mme. Boulanger's Divorce Suit—Moroney Released From Jail.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, December 13.—The threatened secession of the Unionist members of the National Liberal Club has had the effect of stimulating the party support of that institution. Yesterday 118 new members were elected, including the Earl of Compton. Next month the number of new members is likely to be doubled. Many Liberals, who do not reside in London, have asked to be put in nomination in order to help keep the club going. The opinion of the committee, now appears to be that on the whole the club may improve its position through the secession. Careful estimates put the proportion of Unionists to Gladstonians at not more than 10 per cent.

M. P.'S RECEIVING PUBLIC MONEY.

The return ordered by the Commons last month, showing the number of members of that house in receipt of public money, has just been issued. Sixty-two receive money from the army estimates, twelve from the navy, four from the Queen's household, thirty-three as members of the Government, including the Speaker and the Chairman of the committee, and six receive pensions from the consolidated fund on the civil service votes. Four members of the Queen's household occupy merely ornamental posts, and all are the eldest sons of wealthy peers.

ALIEN INTERESTS IN AMERICA.

A further report has been presented to Parliament on the status of alien and foreign companies in the United States. It consists of a communication from Consul Sadler of Iowa, enclosing a copy of a recent act of the General Assembly of Iowa, restricting non-resident aliens from holding real estate.

THE SACKVILLE INCIDENT.

Churchill intends to ask the Government whether any further communications have been received by the Foreign Office from the Government of the United States relative to the conduct of Lord Sackville, and if so, whether it can be laid before Parliament before the discussion of Sackville's salary.

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m. to-day, for Missouri are: Fair weather; warmer; southerly winds.

The boom of the Post-Dispatch Christmas tree is gathering new force every day.

With the Hendricks Association out of the way the two remaining nuisances of St. Louis are the bollard and the smoke nuisance.

Any one who believes that the interests of the city in the gas question will be protected by the Municipal Assembly would believe anything.

Evidence is rapidly accumulating that one more such victory as the election of Harrison and Morton would throw the Republican party into bankruptcy.

In the language of the small boy the Post-Dispatch Christmas tree will be a "whopper," and every branch will be loaded with good things for the poor children.

It is to be hoped for the dignity of the country that President-elect Harrison and Vice-President-elect Morton will not wink and slap each other on the back when any one is present.

If the Hendricks Association could only induce someone to steal the memory of its record as well as the books, the theft would be a distinct gain to the Democratic party and the community at large.

The warship Galena stuck in the mud previous to her departure for Haiti, but it is far better to have her stuck in the mud before starting than after reaching Haiti, where such a catastrophe might require more warships to get her away again.

CHARITABLE ladies in this city can give valuable assistance to the Post-Dispatch Christmas tree by lending the aid of their skill and taste in dressing the 6,000 dolls which have been purchased for the tree. Information as to the proper method of helping in this way will be found in the Christmas tree column.

The number of contributors to the Post-Dispatch Christmas tree fund reached 21,888 yesterday. The total number by Christmas eve should be limited only by the number of people who are able to contribute. Every contribution will make at least two persons happier—the giver and the receiver.

The stories concerning the alleged domestic infidelity of President and Mrs. Cleveland have been denied absolutely by high authority. It would be better for the friends of the President and his wife now to leave them to the gossipers and scandal-mongers, lest they be accused of protesting too much, which is worse than not protesting at all.

JUDGE KELLY of St. Paul has stirred up a nest of hornets by ordering the newspaper reporters in his court not to report a discussion which occurred over the publication of the proceedings of a murder case. Judge KELLY evidently has an erroneous idea of the power of judges and the use of the courts in this country. He should go to Russia, where he would doubtless adorn the bench.

This negro vote, while it presents a troublesome problem to the Southern people, at the same time vastly increases the political power of the South without materially altering the political attitude. This is a fair evening-up of advantages and disadvantages and should, at least, deter the Southerners from stirring up the impossible scheme of disfranchising the negro as some of them are inclined to do.

APPEALING to his Democratic friends to support the Senate's tariff bill without amendment, Senator BURNETT expresses the hope that they will "abide by the judgment of the people in favor of American industry." As "the judgment of the people in favor of American industry" consisted of a majority of 100,000 votes in favor of the Mills bill and against the Senate substitute, Mr. BURNETT will not abide by that judgment himself unless he votes with the Democrats against the Senate bill.

If we remember rightly the Hendricks Association at one time fell called on to pass resolutions "denouncing" the Post-Dispatch because the Post-Dispatch did not approve of the methods of the Hendricks Association. If any vindication of the Post-Dispatch were needed it has been furnished by the decay, downfall and dissolution of that disreputable organization. It is not necessary to pass formal resolutions denouncing the Hendricks Association.

The defense of the negro woman who was released from the charge of murdering in male attire in the Police Court, that she wore trousers because she could show her skill at "wing" dancing to better effect, is an additional argument in favor of dress reform. If the old-fashioned skirt not only destroys health and prevents easy locomotion, but takes the freedom and airy sweep of motion from the "wing" dance, it must go. Perhaps the waltz, too, would gain a freer grace with the divided skirt.

The Colorado Legislature is in the throes of a Senatorial election, and, as usual, the struggle for the prize is confined to the four richest men in the State, with the chances in favor of the man with the longest purse and the freest hand. TABOR, who was the laughing stock of the Senate for six weeks, is thought to have an excellent chance for election simply because of his wealth. The spectacle is not calculated to inspire confidence in anything except the financial standing of the members of the Upper House.

THE old saying that any one who wants anything must whistle for it takes on a new meaning in view of the experience of Mr. ALICE J. SHAW, who has proved that fame and fortune wait on a pair of pretty lips which can pucker artistically. Perhaps CHAUCER rhymed prophetically of this charming whistler when he spoke of "hire joly whistle wel ywette." But, despite the old poet, there is little profit in wetting one's whistle too often, and doubtless Mrs. SHAW can testify that it is unnecessary to use anything except cold water for the purpose.

JUDGE COOLEY has cleverly hit the nail on the head with regard to the operation of the Interstate Commerce Law. In answer to the charge that the law has depreciated the value of railroad stocks and bonds, he asserts that it is simply bringing railroad stocks and bonds down to their true value, and until this is done the country and the people cannot prosper. Judge COOLEY says that the difficulty of obtaining evidence has prevented the full enforcement of the law, but he is confident that its provisions will be repealed, but will be strengthened.

THE scandal in which GROVER CLEVELAND's name has figured have been concocted by the enemies of the President, and are solely concerned in their dissemination. This is true of the scandal of 1888, as it was of those of 1884. The Bourbon editors who are piping out their denunciations of this business in treacherous falsetto and hysterically tearing the air, would do well to bear this capacious fact in mind.—(Globe-Democrat.)

The two gentlemen who are most unhappy over the necessity of explaining their part in the circulation of the dirty story are CHAUNCEY M. DREW and Senator JOHN J. INGALLS, who are not Democrats.

The Hendricks Association's missing furniture has not yet been found. The adhering members are turning out their pockets to show that they have got none of it concealed on their persons. It is too late to lock the doors and search those who have succeeded, and the mystery will probably remain forever unsolved. The property has simply "gone glimmering through the dream of things that were." But the ballot box which was so artistically stuffed every time the officers were elected remains to the association, and a few of the faithful still attend the meetings to protect that venerated relic.

CONGRESSMAN MARTIN of Texas has again brought himself into the glare of publicity by assailing the reporter who wrote an article reflecting on his familiarity with city ways and asserting that he blew out the gas before retiring. Mr. MARTIN has acted rashly. It is not a discredit to a man in politics to be ignorant of city ways, and besides the article in question made the Congressman famous in a day. However, as Mr. MARTIN has since declared that he spent several days in St. Louis and "saw the town" recently he will no longer be open to the charge of being ignorant concerning anything which pertains to a great city.

If Mr. CLEVELAND reads the arguments in President JACKSON's message against the distribution among the States of the surplus from the sale of public lands, he will find reasons of public policy as well as constitutional grounds for vetoing the direct tax bill proposing another distribution of Federal money among the States. President JACKSON at first favored the distribution method of disposing of a surplus, but held that a constitutional amendment was necessary to confer the power on Congress. Afterwards he rejoiced that there was no such power, and held that even if it existed it could not be exercised without rank injustice to taxpayers and pernicious effects upon our system of government. It was in reference to his objections that Congress "whipped the devil around the stump,"

THE CARNIVAL OF CRIME.

THE DIRECT TAX BILL.

The bill returning to the States that it paid the direct tax collected during the year has passed the House by a vote of 178 to 96. It appropriates nearly $20,000,000 for division among thirty-eight States, four Territories and the District of Columbia in sums ranging from Washington Territory's little grab of $4,588 up to New York's big haul of $2,608,918. Missouri's share will be $761,127, and would make big reduction of the State debt if it could be applied that way.

But the few survivors of those who paid that $761,127 in Missouri can postpone for a while their rejoicing over the restoration of their quotas, and the State need not worry about the disposition of her share until she gets it. Big as the bribe is, the bill lacks a good deal of a two-thirds majority in the House, and will pass the Senate by only a small majority. If Mr. CLEVELAND vetoes it, its future enactment will depend on the approval of the Republican President and Congress.

Nobody questions the right of Congress to make restitution to tax-payers of taxes wrongfully collected. But nobody pretends that this $20,000,000 was wrongfully collected, or that this is a bill restoring the money to those who paid it over twenty-five years ago. It is a bill appropriating for unequal distribution among the States the money of the present generation of tax-payers.

It is a bill, in fact, which would give to the present generation of tax-payers the money of the past generation. It is a bill, in fact, which would give to the present generation of tax-payers the money of the past generation.

It is a bill, in fact, which would give to the present generation of tax-payers the money of the past generation. It is a bill, in fact, which would give to the present generation of tax-payers the money of the past generation.

It is a bill, in fact, which would give to the present generation of tax-payers the money of the past generation. It is a bill, in fact, which would give to the present generation of tax-payers the money of the past generation.

THE CARNIVAL OF CRIME.

THE DIRECT TAX BILL.

The bill returning to the States that it paid the direct tax collected during the year has passed the House by a vote of 178 to 96. It appropriates nearly $20,000,000 for division among thirty-eight States, four Territories and the District of Columbia in sums ranging from Washington Territory's little grab of $4,588 up to New York's big haul of $2,608,918. Missouri's share will be $761,127, and would make big reduction of the State debt if it could be applied that way.

But the few survivors of those who paid that $761,127 in Missouri can postpone for a while their rejoicing over the restoration of their quotas, and the State need not worry about the disposition of her share until she gets it. Big as the bribe is, the bill lacks a good deal of a two-thirds majority in the House, and will pass the Senate by only a small majority. If Mr. CLEVELAND vetoes it, its future enactment will depend on the approval of the Republican President and Congress.

Nobody questions the right of Congress to make restitution to tax-payers of taxes wrongfully collected. But nobody pretends that this $20,000,000 was wrongfully collected, or that this is a bill restoring the money to those who paid it over twenty-five years ago. It is a bill appropriating for unequal distribution among the States the money of the present generation of tax-payers.
